Milbert Shockley house description

The Milbert Shockley house stands on the west side of the Kemp Nursery Road near Princess Anne, Somerset County, Maryland. The story-and-a-half frame house faces east with the principal gable oriented on a north/south axis.

Supported by a rusticated concrete block foundation the bungalow style house is sheathed with weatherboards and covered by a steeply pitched asphalt shingle roof. The large gabled roof incorporates porches on the east and west sides.

The east (main) elevation is a symmetrical three-bay facade with a center entrance and flanking single-pane sash windows. The front door is partially glazed. Supporting the engaged porch are square posts. Centered on the roof is a large gabled dormer lighted by a pair of single-pane sash windows. A narrow brick stove stack rises through the center of the house.

The south side of the house is an asymmetrical two-bay elevation with a shed roofed bay window on the left (west) and a single-pane sash window to the right (east). The upper gable is pierced by a pair of single-pane sash windows.

The west (back) side of the house is detailed in much the same manner as the front with an engaged porch and a large gabled dormer.

The north gable end of the house follows in the same manner as the south gable.

SIGNIFICANCE

The Milbert Shockley house is a basic early twentieth century bungalow with an expansive gable roof that incorporates a front and back porch. Typically, the second floor is enlarged by two gabled dormers. The informality of the floor plan with direct entrance into the main living room is another common aspect of bungalows.
